Listening is just as important as being careful about the words you choose and use. Make an effort to adopt the preferred language of the person about/to whom you are speaking.